Application deadline July 7, 2010

European Humanities University (Vilnius, Lithuania), Vytautas Magnus University (Kaunas, Lithuania) and the Konrad Adenauer Foundation, in cooperation with The Center for Advanced Studies and Education \(CASE\) and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Lithuania, request submissions for an international conference, A New Region of Europe: Regional Development Paradigms in Baltic-Black Sea Intermarium, which will be held November 26-27, 2010 in Vilnius.

The goal of the conference is to address the question of what represents “the new region of Europe” formed in the process of political and historical evolution on the territory between the Baltic and Black Seas. This space represents qualities of a new social and geographical environment that requires the development of particular methods of enhancing knowledge on social and political processes occurring here in the context of spatial planning, as well as monitoring those changes in the social and humanitarian environment.

“The new region” represents a group of states most frequently, and imprecisely, known as “post-Soviet”. These countries are taking part in diverging processes of integration which determine new boundaries of this region, at the same time confirming its existence vis-à-vis regional approaches to resolving socio-political problems which could be solved only within the boundaries of the whole region but not separate nation-states. In the framework of the concept of “the new region of Europe”, the research of economic, legal and political processes here become extremely important. At the same time this social space has a history of distinctive cultural and civil practices that create the most important foundations of political and social processes.

The quality of human geographical and local environments determines, in turn, trans-border and regional processes. The development of modern regional systems and the opportunity to study the specific nature of mobility processes (social or political, economic transformations and cultural evolution) in the Baltic-Black Sea region of Europe represent unique sources of knowledge about trends of the development of modern social systems.

We are especially interested in submissions that address the following topics:

- Integration and trans-border relationships in the Baltic-Black Sea region;
- Energy security in the Baltic-Black Sea region;
- Regional policy in the states of the Baltic-Black Sea region;
