KAS Political Academy Cyprus

17-19 February 2017

Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung welcomes applications for its 1st Political Academy in Cyprus, which will take place from 17 to 19 February 2017 in Cyprus.

The KAS Political Academy offers skills development for young people who already are or want to be involved in student, youth, and local politics, as well as the civil society. Through the KAS Political Academy the participants will have the chance to get a broader understanding about the complex political, social and economic environment of Cyprus and the EU, and get familiar with the values of the European centre-right. The objective of the Political Academy is to provide the participants with knowledge and technical expertise in order to enhance their ability to shape their political argumentation.

For those interested, the KAS Political Academy offers a unique opportunity to acquire new knowledge and skills through the interaction with academics, experts and political actors. Certificates of participation will be awarded.

The Call is open to applicants from Cyprus up to 35 years old, with a very good command of English and Greek, active involvement in political affairs and/or the civil society, as well as a keen interest in European and Cypriot politics.

In order to apply, please fill in the relevant application form and send it by Sunday, 15 January 2017 to Jeroen.Kohls@kas.de. For more information, please send your queries to the same email address.

More information on the Athens office of the Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung and its activities can be found here: <http://www.kas.de/griechenland/en/>.

The KAS Political Academy in Cyprus will be supported by the Glafkos Clerides Institute.
