Muammar Gaddafi's private Jet Dassault Falcon 900EX performed a charter flight from Tripoli to Minsk and back

The governments of Belarus and Lithuania didn't confirm this information.

Lukashenko sells weapons to Gaddafi, who uses them to kill his population with it. Lukashenko is a threat not only to his people but also to the world.

It's time to answer the question: did the West's official politics towards Belarus really work?

Inauguration of Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko

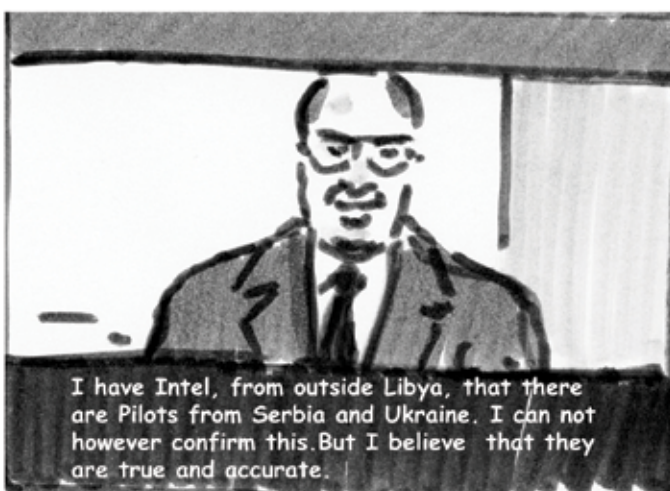

Accepting the presidential office of the Republic of Belarus, I do solemnly swear:

to serve the People of the Republic of Belarus faithfully, to respect and preserve Human Rights and Liberties, to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the Republic of Belarus, to execute the assigned duties faithfully and conscientiously

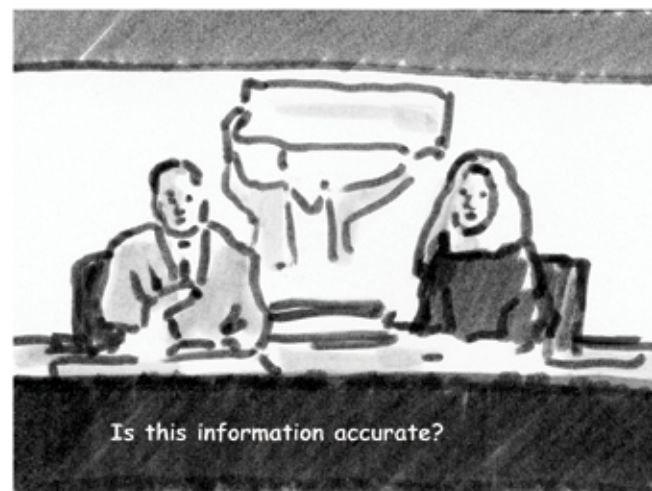

The Belarusian nation is confidently following the path chosen by the people. Let God strengthen and enlighten You, greatly respected Alexander Grigor'evich, in your high public service

Metropolitan of Minsk and Slutsk Filaret

I have Intel, from outside Libya, that there are Pilots from Serbia and Ukraine. I can not however confirm this. But I believe that they are true and accurate.

Is this information accurate?

Alexander Otruschenkov was sentenced to 4 years of maximum security

The trial for Otruschenkov, Molchanov and Novik lasted only two days. According to evidence of human rights advocates and lawyers the guilt of the defendants wasn't proved

We are living under dictatorship, so we haven't expected more than accusations, together we will overcome this period with him.

I came to take part in the protest. There wasn't any arson, no resistance to the militia

Daria Korsak, the wife of Alexander Otruschenkov

The journalist Alexander Otruschenkov has been sentenced to 4 years of maximum security, the demonstrators Alexander Molchanov and Dmitry Novik have been sentenced to 3 and 3,5 years of maximum security

They start watching the videotapes from the Square. The TV is standing next to the judge, it can hardly be seen from the courtroom. The judge switched the sound off. The prosecutor covered the screen with his back. Now the whole courtroom can't see and hear anything, people start to show their discontent. The OSCE experts are laughing

This is a closed court room.. I ask everyone with a photo and video camera to leave the courtroom

The sentence was handed down by the judge Tatiana Cherkas. The prosecutor Molodcova demanded to sentence three defendants to 5 years of maximum security.

The fact that they did it to him proves that these bastards are scared. They are scared of such people like Otruschenkov, Sannikov, Bondarenko, Statkevich, Lebed'ko. All their power is based on fear.

The coordinator of the civil company "European Belarus" Dmitry Borodko

There will be no sanctions: Europe is more interested in its countries and their business

If they wanted, they would have already imposed these sanctions

Which sanctions are you talking about? In Germany petrol costs 1.6 euro for a liter, after imposing sanctions should we expect 2 euro? Who will lose in this situation?

Europe will unlikely impose any sanctions but symbolic ones on Belarus. Europe won't reject Belarusian oil even if the cops start shooting

As the measures of pressure used by the West towards Lukashenko don't seem to have any influence, perhaps economic sanctions should be introduced.

Popularity, reputation, trust - a politician gets all of those during the election campaign. The scenario of a "colored revolution" requires purchasing these qualities. From regular people. Those who were collecting signatures received 1 dollar per each, those who took part in the demonstrations - 10 dollars, then at the Square, and finally on the dock.

What do normal Russians and Belarusians think of those who took part in the upheaval on the 19th of December in Minsk?

Today they are breaking windows, tomorrow they will start killing people. They should be punished!

Do they have nothing to do at home? Belarus is a different country!

They should be severely punished!

The hooligans should be punished! I saw them breaking the windows!

You came here to help us organise disorders? Enjoy life now!

According to a decision by the Minsk Lawyer Board, Pavel Pavel Sapelko was excluded from its members. He can't work as a solicitor any more.

I am not sure that under the current circumstances somebody from the take who I know will be ready to begin these legal cases.

According to rumours, we know how to tell apart a cold prison cell from a warm one. In a cold one they sleep in three pairs of socks, in a jacket and in a cap, in the warm one they sleep in one pair of socks, in a jacket and without a cap

Olga Bondarenko, the wife of Dmitry Bondarenko

From December 29th on, candidate for president Nikolai Statkevich, his authorized representative Sergei Marcelev and the chairman of the United Civil Party Anatoly Lebed'ko haven't been able to meet with the lawyer

The attitude toward women in the pre-trial prison is more civil. But according to the sounds heard from behind wall, men were treated badly and brutally.

Natalia Radina, an editor of the website charter 97, accused of disorderly conduct, was released from the pre-trial prison of KGB under the recognizance not to leave

He couldn't get up on his own from the bed and go to the toilet as the pain in his joints was so strong. Nobody wanted call a doctor to the prison cell until there was a rebellion there.

Maya Abramchik, twenty- one years old, got her leg broken by the special police squad on December 19th. Afterwards, they drove her in their car around Minsk for three hours at night, not letting her see doctors. Only in jail on Okrestina street they did call the ambulance.

I have already changed 3 lawyers. As soon as they hear my story, their face changes. The complaint about my case was sent to attorney general office in Moscow district of Minsk on December 21st.

The condition of my release under the cognizance not to leave my place of residence was signing an agreement of "collaboration". I deliberately took that step, not because of pressure or torture, but in order to pass on to the world the information of what is being done to the prisoners.

I made a detailed description of everything that was done to me. I will do all that I can to make this concentration camp in the centre of Minsk disappear forever.

During the so-called "body search", we were all herded into a cold room, stripped and made to sit down and stand up abruptly - repeatedly several dozen times. Prisoners with weaker health were nearly passing out during this, but it didn't stop the masked people. At night, the day lamps were not switched off. We were ordered to lay down with our faces under lamps and forbidden to cover our faces with handkerchiefs. My sight started deteriorating as a result.

The cell floor was painted with acetone-based paint and we were ordered to remain in this non-ventilated room until the paint had fully dried. They added fresh paint several times. This was carried on continuously for over 40 hours.

5-6 times a day, we were taken out "to be searched". During this, we were made to stand naked in a "stretch vice": our legs were tripped up, forcing them to be stretched almost to a full split. When our legs buckled, I felt the ligaments breaking, it was difficult to walk after this procedure. We were made to stand naked about one meter away from the wall, the masked people forcing us to lean with our hands against the wall. In a room in which the temperature did not exceed 50°F, we were kept this way for 40 minutes until our hands were swollen.

Defense lawyers were not admitted. This was done deliberately, to prevent the prisoners from telling them about the tortures.

People wearing black masks twisted my arms behind my back as far up as they would go, until my joints started cracking. They told me I needed to do everything requested of me. They kept my arms in this position for a long time and pushed them higher and higher until I said I would comply with all requests.

28. 02. 2011

Former presidential candidate Ales Mikhalevich made a statement about torture that takes place in the KGB prison

In the cells, the temperature did not exceed 50°F, and there was virtually no heating. The "masked people" warned that we would be "hung by handcuffs" again in the event of complaints.

On March 1, 2011 during the trial I had a short opportunity to talk with my husband who confirmed that he was also subjected to torture and violent inhumane treatment in the pre-trial prison of the KGB.

Daria Korsak, the wife of Alexander Otruschenkov

The square. If revolutions happened every year, they could become the source of a constant income.

The materials of the secret services reveal the tactics and strategies of the west "analytical centers", first of all from Germany and Poland, which create in Belarus certain structures the aim of which was to overthrow the legally elected power.

In our capital according to the analogy of Kiev in 2004 and Bishkek in 2010 everything began with loud accusations towards the power and inappropriate actions of foreign representatives, seizure and the assault of the administrative buildings. There was one very important difference. The pointless and merciless riot in Minsk was futile.

A participant of the unauthorized action which took place last year in Minsk, Vasily Parfenkov, was sentenced to 4 years of maximum security. He pleaded guilty only partially.

And we answered you clearly and unambiguously that in Belarus there is as much democracy and freedom as in the USA.

We clearly stated that we support democracy, openness, transparency

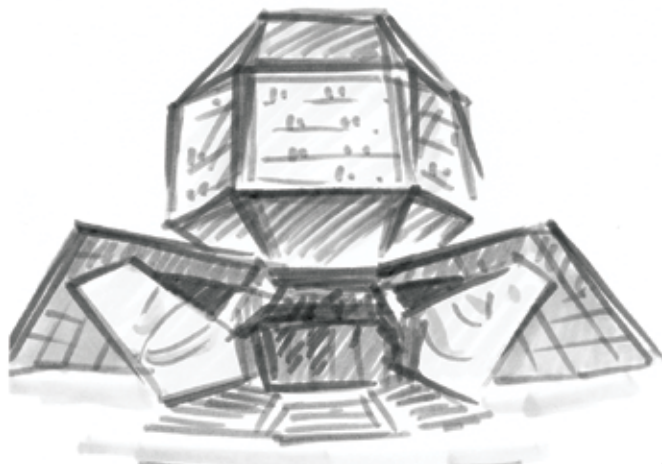

Tell me please, oh respected representative of democracy, why did you destroy Iraq? Why didn't you answer for that?

We don't need to give orders for that. Everything that you are saying is an absolute lie!

Elizabeth, why did you break our agreements of 1994 when we without any conditions passed the nuclear weapons to those you asked us to give them to? You promised not to impose economic sanctions economic.

Why can't you give an order to allow the access of lawyers?

Dear readers, on March 15th, 2011, the library will not be open.

Readers are not allowed in to the building. Today, there will be meetings of the council of Ministers of the Union State of Belarus and Russia.

Is that a library or a conference hall? Why don't they have respect for the people to such an extent?

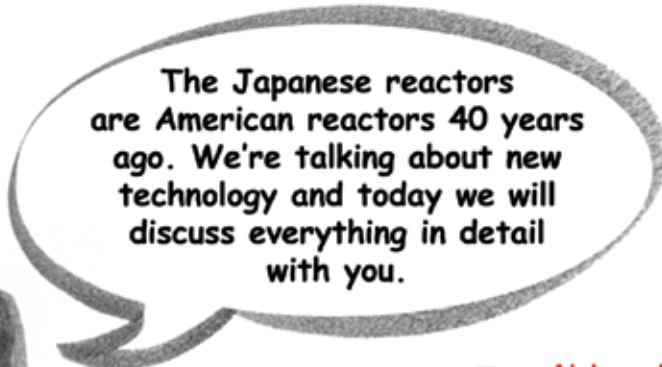

Belarus and Russia signed an agreement for the construction.

In Astravets there are already two 8-storey buildings built for the construction workers of the atomic power station. The construction management offices for the power station are housed on the first floor of one of the buildings.

Vladimir Putin reassured us that the level of the reactor's safety will be significantly higher.

The Japanese reactors are American reactors 40 years ago. We're talking about new technology and today we will discuss everything in detail with you.

Aleksandr Mindadze's film about the Chernobyl tragedy, "On Saturday," was removed from distribution in Minsk theaters.

The location of the building was identified without asking anyone. It's the Grodensk oblast. 60 km from the capital city of Lithuania, Vilnius.

So, Belarusians, will we be just sitting home, doing nothing while Russia uses our country as an appendix?

Learn to pave first or else they'll build a power station!

Belarus stands in lines for sugar, vegetable oil, and money.

The residents of Belarus spend day and night in lines for money. In the foreign market, the course of the dollar to a Belarusian ruble exceeds the official course by 40%. Belarus stopped the sale of gold and silver ingots for Belarusian rubles. For the first time since the 90s, currency speculators appeared in Minsk.

Ambassador of Ukraine in Belarus, Roman Bezsmertny

The powers that be are preparing for privatization: the exposed businesses will be for sale in order to gain financial means and to extinguish the crisis that started in the stock market. Negotiations are held with the Russian Federation and the anti-crisis "Eurasian Economic Community" fund about obtaining loans.

One must not sell government property in these situations, the sale will be cheap, criminal funds will come of it.

People in a panic buy up the staples – flour, sugar, etc. Buying household appliances started en masse...

Lukashenko said just now on TV that the economy is progressing well, an 11% increase in the GDP.

The nation votes with rubles, or rather dollars, where the portraits are of quite different presidents.

Devaluation is inevitable and leads to an even more violent rise in prices. Why won't anyone write honestly that the most vulnerable part of the population will soon start to die off from poverty and the pair of 100 square meter plots bought by a pensioner today won't save her or her family.

What is government property? As long as you are spoon-fed in a timely fashion with worthless Belarusian money and given pensions, everything is already divided amongst yourselves, half dead, is designated government property that no one needs.

Outsourced companies are scaling down operations and are laying off workers.

Feminine hygiene products are disappearing from the stores. There's no money for new batches. Children's diapers are on the verge of vanishing.

The average Belorussian works his fingers to the bone for 8 to 10 hours a day for a monthly salary of 800,000 Belorussian rubles (200 Euros) – half goes to pay for public utilities, the rest to pay loans, groceries, the prices of which rise exponentially. It isn't worth it to write about pensioners because there the picture is even more deplorable.

Four hours ago, an explosion thundered in the Minsk metro at the "Oktyabrskaya" station. As a result, according to latest data, 11 people are dead, 126 were injured, 35 of whom were given immediate medical attention, the rest were hospitalized.

Roughly speaking, at 5:54pm in the Minsk metro's "Oktyabrskaya" station, a terrorist attack occurred.

Deputy Attorney General: Andrei Shved

They won't give us a peaceful life. I warned you about that. I don't want to remember who they are today.

I should have seen it with my own eyes. For me, it was clear: currency, crisis...I thought, they took advantage of the situations in order to further destabilize the situation.

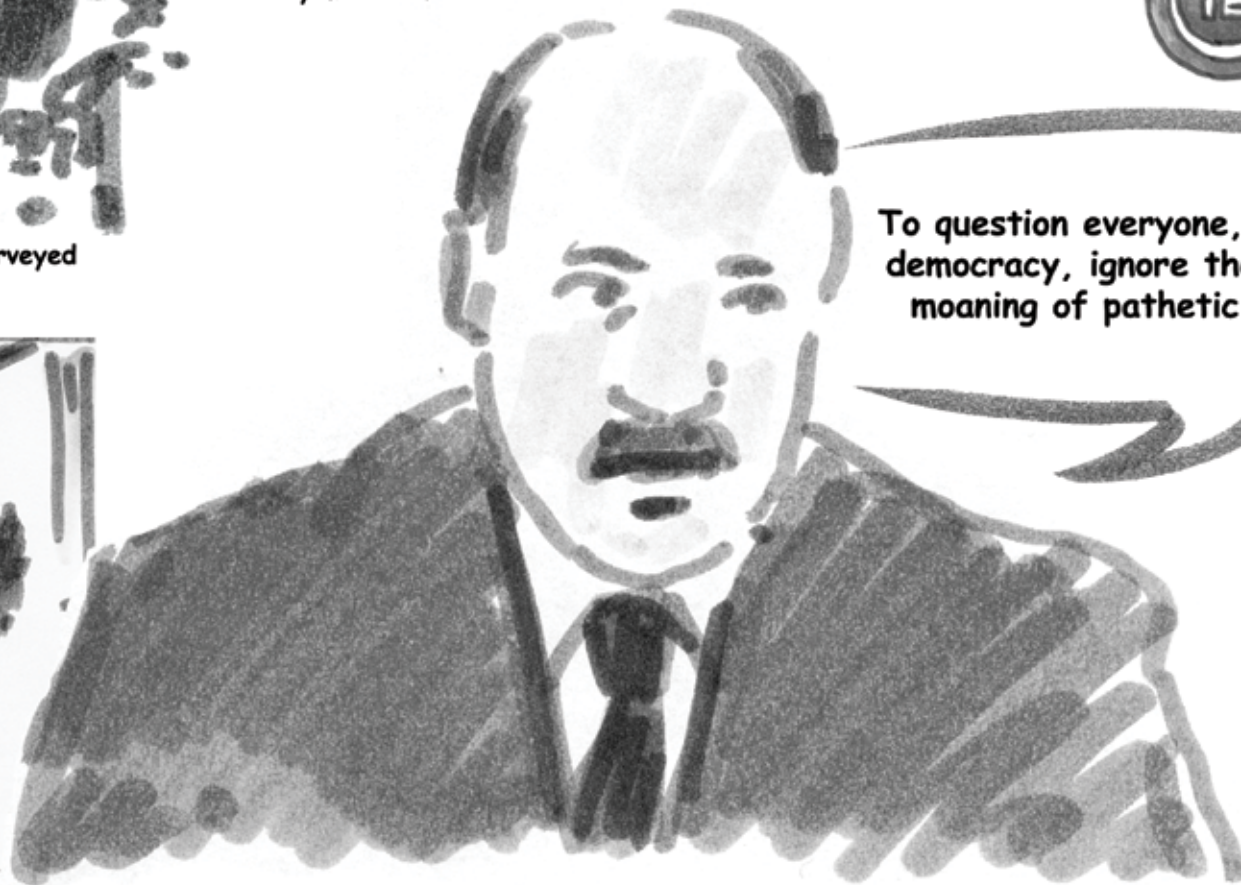

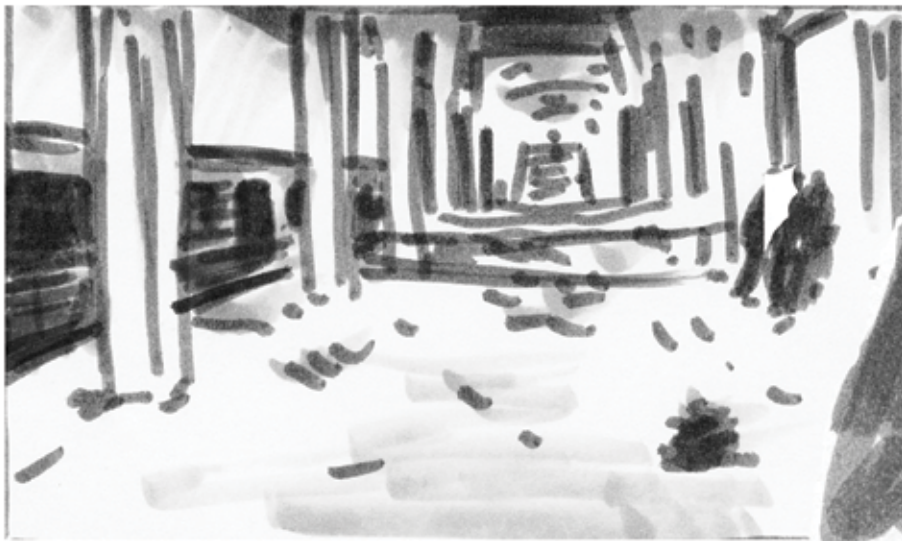

President of Belarus Aleksandr Lukashenko with his son surveyed the scene and laid flowers.

Aleksandr Lukashenko visited the site of the tragedy with his son and led a special conference. It was later found out that the head of State gave instructions to render urgent care to the injured and to increase security measures.

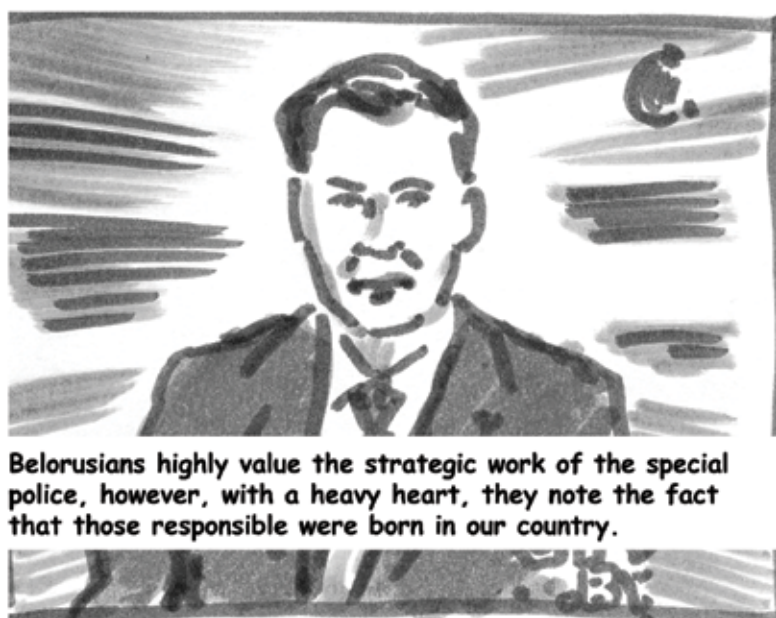

To question everyone, forget about democracy, ignore the howling and moaning of pathetic foreigners.

13.04.2011

The terrorist attack in the Minsk metro was disclosed:

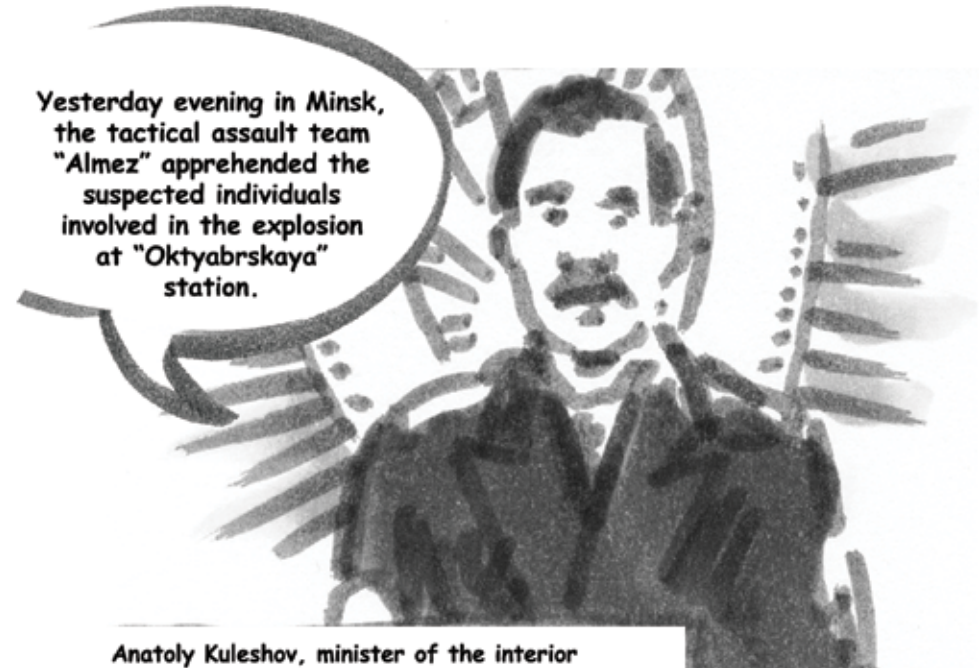

Yesterday evening in Minsk, the tactical assault team "Almez" apprehended the suspected individuals involved in the explosion at "Oktyabrskaya" station.

Belorusians highly value the strategic work of the special police, however, with a heavy heart, they note the fact that those responsible were born in our country.

Anatoly Kuleshov, minister of the interior of the Republic of Belarus

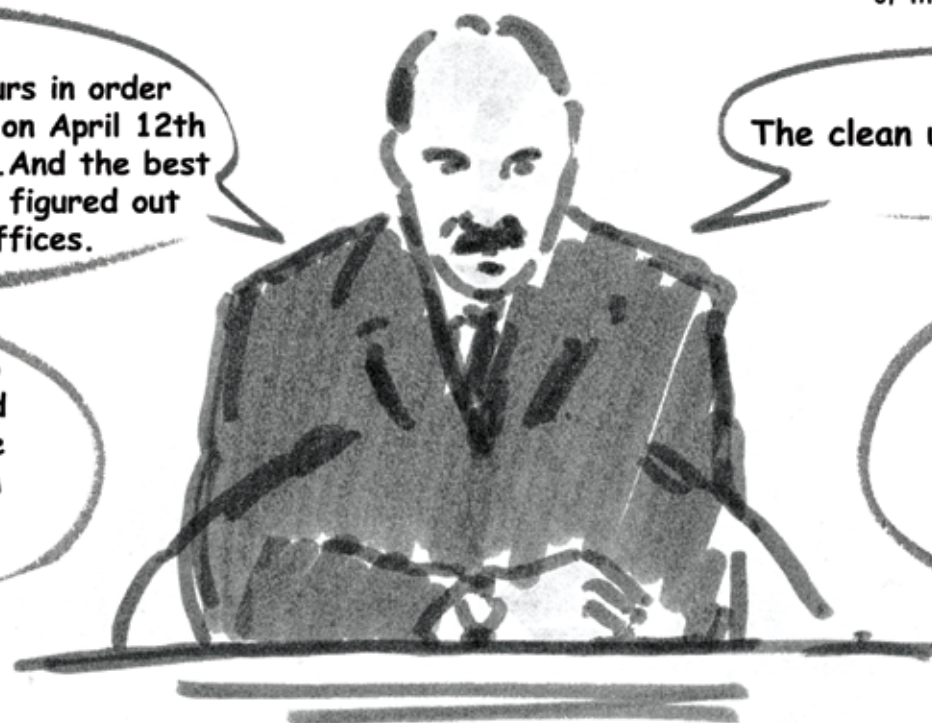

KGB agents needed 24 hours in order to apprehend the terrorists on April 12th at 9pm without firing a shot. And the best thing is the criminals were figured out without leaving the offices.

How the investigators reported it to me was that the detainees confessed not only to committing the act in the metro, but also to acts of terrorism on their consciences committed on Independence Day in Vitebsk.

The clean up should be all encompassing!

Any panic, including those about food, money, must stop. Those found responsible will face criminal prosecution for the propagation of slanderous fabrications.

And why are we still looking at sketches and not at real photos of the suspects?

I'm afraid that if the "terrorists" came clean about organizing all the explosions in just a few hours, then the most innovative methods of torture were used.

Kolya went up to the first cordoned off section, led him away, and Lukashenko came to look at the bodies and the crater. No kind of production. The casualties were left in place to carry out an investigation. A rather weak evidence base.

The General Procurator's office also showed journalists video footage of the suspect who committed the act in the Minsk metro.

Colonel of the special police currently in exile Vladimir Borodach

They force idiots to say everything they need, they have a trial, and they quickly shoot them. The organizers of the explosion won't take responsibility themselves. It doesn't make sense for people who so easily committed this crime to conceal their employers.

Life was split between before and after...but the explosion is still in every fiber of my being. I search the internet endlessly for information and can't escape the horror.

Where are the ventilation and emergency lights? I heard all these years about how in Belarus everything is in ideal condition.

If one assumes the actual complicity of these young people in these crimes, then where are their true leaders, organizers, financiers?

19.04.2004

Police of the Frunzensky district arrested four civil activists. Pavel Levinav and Olga Karach are detained on suspicion in connections with the terrorist attack in Minsk subway on April 11th.

12.04.2011

Olga Karach: DO BELARUSIANS UNDERSTAND LUKASHENKO?

Scattered sugar on the metro platform Oktyabrskaya and phones that were ringing in the pockets of dead people – those are the signs of our Belarusian time.

Perhaps the parents of Vitebsk boys Aleksandr Loginov and Aleksandr Napayuk can understand, the ones your police officers tortured in a god-awful way. What mother understands when her son has a gun shoved in his mouth and they demand he confess to horrible murders that he didn't commit? Why are those tortured who are supposedly protected by law?

It seems suspicious to me that 10 hours before the explosion, two main alternative sites were blocked – "Belorussian Partisan" and "Charter-97."

It seems suspicious to me that on the eve of both times, you spoke of the possibility of explosions.

Do you understand the 100.000 Belorussian men who you subjected to a derogatory and compulsory fingerprinting procedure? As if our forefathers, fathers, husbands, brothers, and sons were some kind of criminals?

It's a shame for the innocent casualties, but it's no less a shame for the innocent prisoners.

We don't have anyone at work that believes the official version, even the apolitical ones ask themselves, "What kind of idiots do they take us for?"

Anarchists, lathe operator and electrician, and explosives ordered online – I posted this absurdity on my blog.

After the tragedy, Europe put off a conversation about issuing sanctions.

They came to the office of the "Nasha Niva" newspaper as well, they ordered all the videos and photos taken by journalists from the scene of the tragedy to be taken down from the site, they made the director sign a nondisclosure agreement.

The question of why the head of State was allowed into a completely unchecked, dangerous place in a hurry, especially with an under-aged, sweet child, appears rhetorical. All at once the thought comes to mind: it's possible that it was known there was no longer a danger.

16.04.2011
Republican Saturday in Belarus is an annual and significant for Belarusians.

A girl who was arrested allegedly saw nothing. Then she said: "Yes, I saw something." Already confessing.

In the KGB there is the President's command center where I see all that I need to see.

I'm probably not an idiot if I take responsibility in saying the crime is solved.

He said all at once, "Yes, I did it." He recounted everything that the investigators knew, second by second, minute by minute, about the explosion on the 3rd of July, 2008.

Whether it smells of politics or not, I don't want to stir up our fifth column. But soon we will find out some information.

Our so-called European partners in Strasbourg argue about only certain human rights. That's dancing on a grave!

You go to Strasbourg and begin to scream, "Sanctions, let's sanction these people." But that's not against Lukashenko. Lukashenko will survive any sanctions.

Authors of publications with unacceptable content will be summoned for questioning in a criminal investigation that will decide their liability. With regard to websites, order must be restored.

Our president was never against opposition. It's not opposition, but specific people who make statements clearly confirming that this is the fifth column.

This is not the opposition, rather they're people raised and supported by the west; they are so far from the problems of ordinary folk, they have no clue how to approach it.

I should admit this sin, I use the Internet too.

Everyone who sits down to type at the computer has to understand a degree of moral responsibility. For every word said in vain these individuals will be expected to answer. But if this word is repeated over and over again, how should we measure the responsibility?

In this situation we need to find legal ways.
