

Land Reform and Food Security

19 & 20 June 2014

In Collaboration with Konrad Adenauer Stiftung and the Faculty of Law (Potchefstroom Campus) of the North-West University
2-Day Conference 19 and 20 June 2014
at Hakunamatata Estate, Muldersdrift

The right of access to land and the right of access to food

The aim of this conference is to provide critical insights into access to land and provide possible solutions to the realisation of the right especially in the light of proposals made in terms of the Green Paper on Land Reform, 2011 and its eventual successors addressing issues related to land reform. It is proposed that leading academics working on the issue of access to land and food security as well as representatives from the relevant governmental departments and policy-makers be invited to address the conference on the topic. It is envisaged that the conference will be attended by representatives from government, policy-makers, NGOs, academia and the private sector, especially the agricultural sector.

- We invite you to submit proposals for panel discussions and presentations by 26 May 2014.
- Draft of provisional programme will follow as soon as possible.
