Engaging with Social Rights: Procedure, Participation and Democracy in South Africa's Second Wave

The South African Institute for Advanced Constitutional, Public, Human Rights and International Law (SAIFAC), a Centre of the University of Johannesburg, the Konrad Adenauer Stiftung and the UJ Law Library invite you to the Johannesburg launch of Engaging with Social Rights: Participation, Procedure and Democracy in South Africa's Second-Wave (Cambridge UP, 2016), the new seminal book by Prof Brian E. Ray, Cleveland-Marshall College of Law, USA.

Justice Richard Goldstone (ret.) will introduce Prof Ray, who will provide a brief overview of the book followed by a panel discussion with Prof David Bilchitz, Director: SAIFAC, University of Johannesburg, Dr Khulekani Moyo, University of the Witwatersrand and Ms Nomzamo Zondo (Director of Litigation, Socio-Economic Rights Institute).

About the book: The book is an important contribution to the evolving scholarship on socio-economic rights adjudication with a deep focus on the jurisprudence and approach of the South African Constitutional Court. It therefore raises important questions concerning the manner in which courts can contribute towards the advancement of these rights, and consequently, socio-economic equality in South Africa.
