REIMAGINE INDIA SERIES

Special Address and Conversation with

Shri Suresh Prabhu, Hon'ble Member of Parliament and India's Sherpa to G- 20 and G-7

September 17, 2020; 1515- 1630 hrs

Programme Overview

The world is faced with an unprecedented crisis which has affected political, social, economic aspects of life. The global pandemic has ravaged the societies and economies of the world. For an emerging economy, such as India, domestic growth replicates into overall inclusive development and its growth pattern will determine the future of Asian economy as well as the health of trade and investment in the world. India has a vital stake in the stability of the international economic architecture and with Make in India and Atmanirbhar Bharat, India is aiming for self-reliance and sustainable economic growth.

The Reimagine India Series is an endeavour to understand the varied aspects of the political and societal living, with respect to the New Normal, through engaging discussions with Members of Parliament.

To understand how India will regain its stature of one of the fastest-growing economies of the world in the post pandemic era, FICCI Forum of Parliamentarians in partnership with the India Office of Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung organised an interaction with Shri Suresh Prabhu, Hon'ble Member of Parliament and India's Sherpa to G-20 and G-7 under the FICCI-KAS Reimagine India Series on September 17, 2020 from 1515- 1630 hrs.

The webinar witnessed the presence of Dr. Jyotsna Suri, Past President, FICCI and Co Chair, FICCI Forum of Parliamentarians and Mr. Peter Rimmele, Resident Representative to India, KAS, were present at the discussion. Dr. Jyotsna Suri delivered the Welcome Remarks and talked about the initiatives of the Forum.

Key Takeaways

- The COVID- 19 pandemic has tested the resolve of people, which had compelled India and other countries, to suspend economic activities in the first few months and focus on overcoming the pandemic.
- The impact of this has been drastic on various sectors, especially the hospitality sector, which is the largest employer and the backbone of the service sector of India.
- India has seen a remarkable journey in the past years of post- Independence, especially in terms of the development of the democratic process and transformation of rural India.
- Due to the population explosion in the past, India's natural resources have been stretched. India is a young country in terms of the demographic dividend, and its people are an asset yet managing large population can pose a challenge in the future due to the increase in population number as well as sharing of natural resources.
- In the coming years, the decision-makers and economists would need to strike a balance between economic development and conservation of natural resources.
- India is becoming a digital-first country creating an abundance of available information, but it is necessary to assess the authenticity and reliability of the information before being shared.
- The two phenomena are simultaneously operating in the world, where on one hand, the countries are becoming inward and protectionist, on the other hand, globalisation has impacted the way the countries operate. While globalisation has created an interconnected world, it has also led to the downsides of interconnectedness. It has led to economic benefits which in turn has led to job creation.
- The global supply chains, a result of globalisation, have spread across sectors including manufacturing and agriculture. It is also a way of ensuring that consumers get the best products, best available components, at competitive prices.
- There is a need to amalgamate the two aspects of global and local in our approach and Hon'ble PM's idea of Atmanirbhar Bharat, encompasses complementarity in interests and capability.
- India needs to have a strong stand on multilateralism as a platform for global governance, which focuses on democracy, openness and rules-based order.
- There is also the need for ensuring that while multilateralism focusses on global governance, democracy is adopted as a means of ensuring national/local governance.

- The Parliamentarians in India and the world, need to play an active role in governance. The civil society organisations, being non-governmental actors, can contribute towards the country's growth.
- In terms of the industry, India's growth is largely dependent upon the growth of the private sector, start-ups and service sector. The role of businesses is extremely important in ensuring overall development of the country as India can develop only when Indian businesses develop.
- In a new world order ensuing post the pandemic, the countries of the QUAD have the chance to work together and create a vision for a free Indo-Pacific and a multilateral world order.
- India's role on the international platform including G-20 and G-7 is crucial. India is set to host the G-20 Summit in 2022, which also coincides with India's 75th Independence Year, which will provide ample opportunities for India to not only engage with the world but also establish itself as a catalyst for the growth of Asian economy and the world.

Glimpses

Introductory Remarks

Dr. Jyotsna Suri, Past President, FICCI; Co-Chair, FICCI Forum of Parliamentarians and CMD, Lalit Suri Hospitality Group

Dr. Jyotsna Suri welcomed everyone to the interaction. She talked about the genesis of FICCI Forum of Parliamentarians in the year 2000, which is chaired by Shri. Bhupender Yadav, Rajya Sabha MP and National General Secretary of BJP, and noted that it is a Track II initiative for engaging MPs as a voice for Parliamentarians in the world's largest democracy. She informed about the activities of the Forum which encompasses political outreach across party affiliations covering both Houses of the Indian Parliament in a true bipartisan spirit and has witnessed several interactions between Indian MPs with their foreign counterparts from countries like UK, Japan, US, Germany and many more.

Talking about the current unprecedented crisis, Dr. Suri mentioned that there has been a considerable shift in the way the economies are operating where everything has become virtual. She introduced the Reimagine India Series as an endeavour to understand the varied aspects of the political and societal living, with respect to the New Normal, through engaging discussions with Members of Parliament.

Introducing Shri Suresh Prabhu as the key speaker, Dr. Suri remarked that Shri Prabhu is a well-known political figure in Indian Politics. He is an Ace Administrator, who has had a vast political career, spanning for over more than two decades. He has been elected to the Lok Sabha four times and has also served as Union Railway Minister of India from November 2014 to September 2017. He was elected as Rajya Sabha member from Andhra Pradesh in 2016 and currently is Prime Minister's Sherpa to G- 7 and G- 20. As the G20 Sherpa, Shri Prabhu's contributions include shaping the official agenda of the Government of India on key issues for G7 & G20 Summit, engaging with global leaders/thinkers and leading delegations across the globe. His exemplary role as Minister for Industry, Minister of Environment and Forests, Minister of Fertilizers & Chemicals, Power, Heavy Industry and Public Enterprises, during the Premiership of Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee [1998 to 2004], is noteworthy. Shri Prabhu, in his capacity as the Union Minister for Power, is known to have introduced major reforms in India's power sector through advocating and implementing the Electricity Act, 2003.

He is associated with Social Work as well as various international forums in various capacities and has received several accolades for his contribution to Indian politics, governance and polity.

Dr. Suri noted that the economies of the world are struggling to revive their economy and it is important that the government, policy makers, business community and the civil society to reimagine India and ensure that it regains its stature of one of the fastest-growing economies of the world.

Key Note Address

Shri Suresh Prabhu, Hon'ble Member of Parliament and India's Sherpa, G- 20 and G- 7

Shri Suresh Prabhu, in his Key Note Address, talked about the remarkable journey of India in the past years of post- Independence, especially in terms of the development of the democratic process and transformation of rural India. He mentioned that India before COVID had its economy at USD 3 trillion which has been severely affected due to the pandemic where the focus was on saving lives and avoiding personal contact which also led to the suspension of economic activities in the first few months. He noted that the impact has been drastic on various sectors, especially the hospitality and tourism sector, which is the largest employer and the backbone of the service sector of India which is 60 per cent of GDP of India.

He remarked that achieving economic progress through democratic institution by respecting certain norms is a great achievement. He mentioned that India has come a long way in terms of its democratic and electoral process and evolution but in terms of the per capita availability of natural resources, due to population explosion, the natural resources of India have been stretched.

Shri Prabhu mentioned that India is a young country in terms of the demography and its people are an asset, yet managing large population can pose a challenge in the future due to the increase in population number as well as sharing of natural resources. He suggested that the decision-makers and economists will have to balance between economic development and conservation of natural resources.

He opined that the industries will have to address the expectations of their stakeholders and customers, similarly the legislators, judiciary and decision-makers will have to address the expectations of the citizens. This would also put pressure on media, the fourth pillar of democracy.

Shri Prabhu further noted that in the world, there are two forces which are operating in tandem where on the one hand the countries are becoming inward and protectionist while on the other hand, globalisation has impacted the way the countries operate. While globalisation has created an interconnected world, it has also led to the downsides of interconnectedness. It has led to economic benefits which in turn has led to job creation. He remarked that the global supply chains, a result of globalisation, have spread across sectors including manufacturing and agriculture which was an effective way of ensuring that consumers get the best products, at best available assembling price, best components, best marketing network at competitive prices. This has also led to innovation as unless something is conceived on a large scale, innovation will not take place since there is a need to amortise the cost of innovation. He noted that there is a need for amalgamating the two aspects of global and local in our approach and Hon'ble PM's idea of Atmanirbhar Bharat, encompasses complementarity in interests and capability.

According to him, India needs to have a strong stand on multilateralism as a platform for global governance, which focuses on democracy, openness and a rules-based order. There is also the need for ensuring that while multilateralism focusses on global governance, democracy is adopted as a means of ensuring national/local governance. He alluded that this should be the guiding principle with a commitment towards democracy and democratic processes at all levels.

Talking about the role of the Parliamentarians in India and the world, Shri Prabhu remarked that the legislators need to play an active role in global governance along with the civil society organisations and other non-governmental actors. He noted that the Parliamentarians need to be entrusted with greater role and responsibilities across the world as they are people's representatives as well as lawmakers and policymakers and have the background of direct understanding of ground-level problems.

He concluded by noting that India's growth is largely dependent upon the growth of the private sector, start-ups and service sector and the role of businesses is extremely important in ensuring overall development of the country as India can develop only when Indian businesses develop.

Remarks

Mr. Peter Rimmele, Resident Representative, Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung (KAS)

Mr. Peter Rimmele highlighted the longstanding association of KAS with Shri Suresh Prabhu and mentioned about the delegations led by him in the past. Mr. Rimmele noted that the COVID-19 pandemic had tested the resolve of people worldwide and India has been badly affected by it yet there's hope that India will be able to overcome this crisis and emerge stronger.

He highlighted the 75-year old relations between India and Germany post the WWII and mentioned about the diplomatic ties between the two nations which were strengthened by the spirit of mutual trust and equal opportunities. He remarked that Germany and India also share strong cultural ties which is evident through the various cultural exchanges between the two countries. Highlighting the strategic partnership and high level diplomatic and economic ties shared between India and Germany, Mr. Rimmele mentioned about the important G2G or B2B meetings such as the Indo-German Government Consultations and Indo-German Business Dialogue, which have led to mutual agreement on foreign affairs, R&D and economic progress. He also mentioned about the Indo-European Free Trade Agreement which has not materialised.

Mr. Rimmele further remarked that the countries of the QUAD have the chance to work together and assure a vision for a free and open Indo-Pacific, adherence to International Law and the presence of a multilateral world order.

Discussion

Q. India is slated to have the G20 Presidency in 2022, which also is India's 75th Year of Independence as well as the 46th G-7 summit is expected to be scheduled later this year, what will be India's priorities in the upcoming G-7 and G-20 summits?

A. India's role on the international platform including G-20 and G-7 is crucial. There are two aspects of G20 agenda: one is that every presidency has certain priorities that they portray at the various meetings followed by the summit in addition to the priority agenda which were presented at the previous summits. India is set to host the G-20 Summit in 2022, which also coincides with India's 75th Independence Year, which will provide ample opportunities for India to not only engage with the world but also establish itself as a catalyst for the growth of Asian economy and the world.

Q. How can India reimagine its various aspects of democracy, economy and economic diplomacy?

A. India with its strong civilisational and cultural roots, has the potential to turn this crisis into an opportunity to rebuild, reshape and reinstate the country and to emerge stronger and resilient in the coming years.

Q. How can digitisation be used to improve the process of availability goods and services, provide public services to the citizens electronically and make the government accountable?

A. India is becoming a digital-first country, exchange of information has created an abundance of availability of information, which has created a challenge in terms of information authenticity and reliability. As the world progresses further and with information technology becoming an accessible tool, the expectations of people will arise in term.

About the Partners

Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI)

Established in 1927, FICCI is the largest and oldest apex business organisation in India. Its history is closely interwoven with India's struggle for independence, its industrialization, and its emergence as one of the most rapidly growing global economies.

A non-government, not-for-profit organisation, FICCI is the voice of India's business and industry. From influencing policy to encouraging debate, engaging with policy makers and civil society, FICCI articulates the views and concerns of industry. It serves its members from the Indian private and public corporate sectors and multinational companies, drawing its strength from diverse regional chambers of commerce and industry across states, reaching out to over 2,50,000 companies.

FICCI provides a platform for networking and consensus building within and across sectors and is the first port of call for Indian industry, policy makers and the international business community. FICCI's vision is to be the thought leader for industry, its voice for policy change and its guardian for effective implementation.

Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung (KAS)

Freedom, justice and solidarity are the basic principles underlying the work of the Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung (KAS). The KAS is a political foundation, with a strong presence throughout Germany and all over the world. We cooperate with governmental institutions, political parties and civil society organisations building strong partnerships along the way. In particular, we seek to intensify political cooperation at the national and international levels on the foundations of our objectives and values. Together with our partners, we contribute to the creation of an international order that enables every country to develop in freedom and under its own responsibility. The Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung has organized its program priorities in India into five working areas:

- Political Dialogue and cooperation
- Foreign and Security Policy including Energy Policy
- Economic policy and management
- Rule of Law
- Media and training programmes for students of journalism

The Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung's India office takes great pride in its cooperation with Indian partner organisations who implement jointly curated projects and programmes.
